Key Learning & Teaching Strategy and Methods

Teaching and learning will be tailored to meet the specific needs of the modules whilst building within the skills required for those working in a supportive role in the education sector.

There will be a mixture of teacher led sessions and facilitated sessions to engage students in learning activities to promote their knowledge and understanding of their role.

Delivery of the programme will be designed around a blended learning approach where lessons will be taught both online and face to face.

A wide range of Technology Enhanced Learning apps will be used within the delivery of the modules to engage learners and offer differentiated learning.

Key Learning and Teaching strategy and delivery methods used within the Supporting Teaching and Learning Foundation Degree are:

- Google Classroom
- Jamboard
- Google Drive
- Google Slides
- Coggle
- Padlet
- Loom
- Flip Grid

Learners are required to participate within independent wider reading where academic sources such as journals and articles, publications and books will be required to be researched around the topics to meet the learning outcomes within each of the modules.

Key Assessment Strategy and Methods

The assessments have been designed with the changing role of supporting teaching and learning in education at the forefront of their design. Observations and planning for children, young people and learners within their learning are essential skills required for teaching assistants to acquire, as well as effective communication with a range of people.

Case studies enable students to look holistically at a case and evaluate interventions, initiatives and sessions to raise the achievement of children and young people. They then can plan and make suggestions for future sessions and individual learning plans for children and young people.

Presentations, demonstrations and seminars develop students' confidence in speaking to others. They enable students to share research and findings with each other and develop this best practice within their workplace.

Students will take part in discussions, seminars ,peer reviews and evaluations on an on-going basis. They are encouraged to share good practice from their work placement opportunities with their peers in group work, discussions and seminar groups.

Assessment methods used within the Supporting Teaching and Learning Foundation Degree are:

- Observation
- Work based projects
- Case studies
- Seminars
- Research
- Peer assessments
- Activity planning
- Critical reflection
- Portfolios
- Viva Voce

The Foundation Degree is awarded on successful completion of both level 4 and level 5 of the award.

Students studying on the foundation degree full time will attend college for the equivalent of two days per week and work placement for a minimum of 10-12 hours per week throughout their study. Full time students will also have increased contact time per module, tutorial and study support sessions on their timetable.

Students studying the foundation degree part time will attend college for the equivalent of one day per week and will need to be employed in a relevant workplace throughout their study.

All modules are delivered in either semester 1 or semester 2. The modules build upon each other and the placement experience. Both part time and full time students will follow the same pattern of study

If students are unable to continue onto level 5 but have been successful on level 4 with 120 credits they may request a Certificate of Higher Education from the progression and award board.

19

Support for Students and Their Learning

The award adopts the following approach to student learning support:

All candidates receive an interview to ensure that the course is suitable for them and they are aware of its content and requirements for work related experience.

Once students have enrolled onto the programme, tailored induction sessions take place at the start of the academic year. Support begins before students arrive with the admissions team, and is reinforced at the detailed induction programme.

Robust communication systems are in place to allow for students to access lectures along with modules resources which are all utilised through a range of systems and technology enhanced learning strategies such as email and google platforms such as classroom.

The teaching team offers continuous support for students throughout the academic year where tutorials take place both within groups and individually. Students are able to request to speak to module tutors at any point that they require any further support and guidance to support them within their studies.

All information about the programme is provided by means of the course handbook, module handbooks all located within google classrooms.

Module tutors will provide regular tutorials along with some personal and academic development planning. This support is continued throughout the two years of study. Full time students have timetabled academic support sessions on their timetable.

Part time students are supported whilst in college and have access to staff out of this time via email or telephone contact if needed. All students are able to contact their module lead for any support required within pastoral care.

There is an extensive range of learning resources in the Library, supported by specialist staff who provide bespoke study skills sessions for students.

Students are required to be in a suitable place of work or undertake ongoing work experience in a suitable setting for 10-12 hours per week. This enables the transference of academic and practical skills to develop a breadth of knowledge and experience.

All students have access to the student VLE where any further support and guidance can be accessed during their study within areas such as counseling, ALS, and any other areas of support.

Each group of students will have an allocated student representative, where they will attend termly student rep meetings in collaboration with other student reps across a variety of programmes. Termly course committee meetings will take place and allow for each student's voice to be heard to allow for feedback on all areas of their programme of study.

Distinctive Features

We have built good relationships and links with employers and work experience may lead to employment opportunities in a range of settings supporting teaching and learning.

An emphasis on the balance between academic studies and work related projects, enable students to succeed within employment with appropriate transferable skills and reflection on practice.

The modules are designed to provide a range of skills and knowledge and include contemporary methods of supporting teaching and learning. We have included the value of listening to the child or young person when planning for their needs.

We operate an open door culture and a team approach to supporting students and their needs. Students comment that they feel very supported in their studies.

Chromebooks are provided for each student on the course which they can keep. This enables them to access the resources on Google classroom and supports the teaching and learning methods.

Assessments within modules are offered within a variety of methods which include the use of google meet where students are able to be recorded when presenting as part of assessment, along with viva voce which allows for academic discussions to be recorded effectively. Voice feedback is provided on some modules within the marked and graded feedback via Turn It in, which students have commented favourably on.
