As remote learning continues to take place students are given the opportunity to engage with Virtual Employability Sessions and with Guest speakers using online platforms. In particular, where visits have been unable to take place students have been given the opportunity to engage with Online and Virtual tours to Global destinations

Key Assessment Methods

A range of assessment methods will be used throughout the BA (Hons) Travel and Tourism Management qualification. As excellent oral and written communication skills are vital in the Travel and Tourism sector individual presentations will be used as an assessment method. Modules such as Research Methods and Destination Marketing Management will be assessed by individual presentations.

It is important that students understand how the theories and concepts put forward relate to current organisations and carry out assessment methods relevant to the sector. This is why case studies will be used throughout the qualification, for example in the Influencing Sustainable Tourism and Strategic Management for Travel and Tourism.

Reports and case study analysis will also be an integral assessment method, allowing students to build their research and analytical skills.

	The assessment for the Dissertation module will involve students undertaking an in depth research investigation into a relevant aspect of their programme of study. The area of study will be chosen by the learner, subject to approval from the dissertation supervisor and ethical review. Throughout the qualification, there will be group and individual work which will be used to help support understanding and help build towards independence to successfully complete the dissertation.

4. Distinctive features of the programme structure

- Where applicable, this section provides details on distinctive features such as:
 - where in the structure above a professional/placement year fits in and how it may affect progression
 - any restrictions regarding the availability of elective modules
 - where in the programme structure students must make a choice of pathway/route
- Additional considerations for apprenticeships:
 - how the delivery of the academic award fits in with the wider apprenticeship
 - the integration of the 'on the job' and 'off the job' training
 - how the academic award fits within the assessment of the apprenticeship

The teaching team have considerable experience both in regard to teaching and vocationally relevant experience. The team have worked for a variety of different employers which gives them an excellent base from which to teach and impart knowledge to students. Major employers include Thomson, Italian Life, Cosmos, Jet2.com, Easyjet, BMI Airways, MyTravel Airways, Britannia Airways, Global Travel, British Airways and the Devonshire Hotel group.

Recently, the department has also developed links with Welcome to Yorkshire, Marriott Hotel Chain, Bakewell Travel, CCUSA, Jet2, Leeds Playhouse, Not Just Travel, Starboard Hotels, Travel Counsellors to give students access to a range of local businesses within the sector. The team is also working with Skills for Growth team from the West Yorkshire Combined Authority, Leeds City Region Enterprise Partnership (LEP),

The proposed new structure of the programme has been developed to incorporate the study of Sustainable tourism, as an area of research and development that has become increasingly important to promote the future of the industry and look at ways tourism can be used positively to benefit the economy, promote education and more meaningful experiences with local connections. Through an appreciation of current issues impacting the industry students will have a more holistic understanding of how they can make a difference through promoting ethical practice within the industry and in their future careers. The programme team are inviting an exciting list of guest speakers including representatives from Greenpeace and Friends of the Earth in order to gain all perspectives on Sustainable Travel and Tourism.

In addition, there is also now involvement of modules that focus on strategy and strategic management as a vital facet of management within any business and more recently in response to the events of 2020. It is hoped this will help students when working in industry to deal with complex problems and consider a range of opportunities when making decisions as future leaders and managers within the sector.

As identified in the QAA Subject Benchmark statement for Events, Hospitality, Leisure, Sport and Tourism November (2019) that as the study of tourism overlaps with subject domains from both within and outside the subject areas and to some extent, this is reflected in the trend for tourism courses to incorporate ideas and concepts drawn from other areas. With that in mind it is anticipated that Travel and Tourism programmes will include an element of destination management, development, policy, governance and strategy to align with current industry requirements.

5. Support for students and their learning.

(For apprenticeships this should include details of how student learning is supported in the work place)

The award adopts the approach to student learning support as identified below:

- A robust communications system functions to give students access to lecturers and management; this includes e-mail the VLE and Google Applications.
- All necessary information about the programme is provided by means of the student handbook, module handbooks and the VLE.
- Each student will be given the opportunity for tutorials and personal development planning. This is implemented in the first semester and continued throughout the year of study.
- For part-time students and modules adopting a blended learning methodology, a robust support system will be in place to provide students with seminar recordings / notes, tutorial information, on-line activities. This will involve the use of the VLE.
- Students have access to the Academic Skills Tutor within the department, with the objective of improving Academic Skills and offering support and advice.
- There is an extensive range of learning resources in the Library, supported by specialist staff that provide bespoke study skills sessions or students.
- The College provides an extensive range of services for students, including support for those with special and additional learning needs or in receipt of Disability Support Allowance (DSA)

10. Changes made to the programme since last (re)validation

Changes being proposed (2021) are:-

Name Change of Award title

The BA (Hons) Travel and Tourism management specific unit provides an appropriate pathway for students from both disciplines, as well as those with relevant backgrounds and /or interests in these sectors. The reasoning behind this primarily came from feedback from students and employers and current feedback is that this continues to be the case. In addition, the broader generic modules provide an overall understanding of the Travel and Tourism sectors.

Change in modules

Prior to the initial validation of the BA (Hons), modules were discussed and meetings were undertaken with employers to determine their relevance and need. From these discussions it was very clear that as well developing underpinning knowledge of the industry there needed to be a clear focus on managerial/business related modules in order to fully meet the needs of the industry. (See consultation folder).

The agreed modules are:

Research Methods
Dissertation
Influencing Sustainable Tourism
Strategic Management for Travel & Tourism
Destination Marketing Management

Addition of part time provision

The full time programme will be run over one year while the proposed part time programme will be run over one and a half years. This is a successful model currently being utilised by other programmes in the department, BA (Hons) Leadership & Management and BA (Hons) Business, Enterprise & Management. It is hoped that by offering the BA (Hons) Travel and Tourism Management on a part time basis it will attract potential students who are already working in the Travel and Tourism sector who have career aspirations and wish to develop to gain promotion and leadership positions. It is also clear that due to the current pandemic the employment prospects in the industry may be limited and therefore potential students may be in a far more competitive environment therefore students without a degree may feel that they need to complete this to put themselves into the best position for future opportunities.
